

Message from S. Joseph Winston President, AARCO & COAST

Dear Dr. Baldev Raj, Director IGCAR

HAPPY NEW YEAR 2009.

The path that we tread all through the last year graduated us in our profession as well as inscribed rich experience in the career. We in this New Year feel nostalgic about the past sweet memories of coherent working as well as the visions we had on the developments of our centre to great heights. We are committed and dedicated to share the pains and to cherish on the success in this New Year. We always would like to mention and place on record the efficient as well as able support, guidance and direction by your good office which steered the centre to reach up to the goals/targets. The technological development requires the constant nurturing of talents and sustaining the same as well as striding ahead to meet up to the marvelous revolution that this planet undergoes. This has been meticulously met with the adroit administration which chronologically scribed the milestones.

The portfolio of our centre has been in the limelight of the media as well as in the international community which is nothing but the best efforts and directions as well as team work which is set by your good office. The freedom to think and the freedom to express have made more participation as well as more interaction among employees which developed the interpersonal relationship which we targeted last year. This year AARCO is committed to work for instating more ethics in work as well as more self appraisal to improve on the productivity of the centre. We AARCO is committed to participate in all the developmental activities and shoulder your administration in all means for making a better India on the Technological front.

We wish you, your office as well as family members very bright & prosperous New Year 2009. Let the New Year bring more Joy, Happiness and success all through the year.

With warm regards
S. Joseph Winston

Reply from Dr. Baldev Raj, Director IGCAR

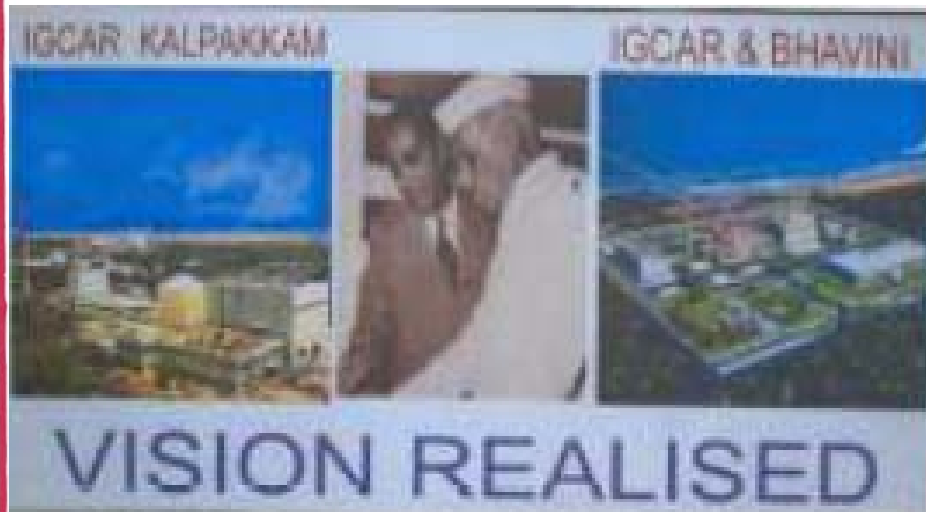

I appreciate your high commitment and competence to enhance science and technology with ethics. These two aspects and synergy would take the Centre to greater heights and would bring satisfaction to all of us. I value your total support and spirit of working in synergy utilizing complimentary strengths and competences.

I take this opportunity to wish you and your family, all the bliss, happiness and successes during the year 2009. Please see e-greeting card attached.

With my best wishes and personal regards,

Yours sincerely,

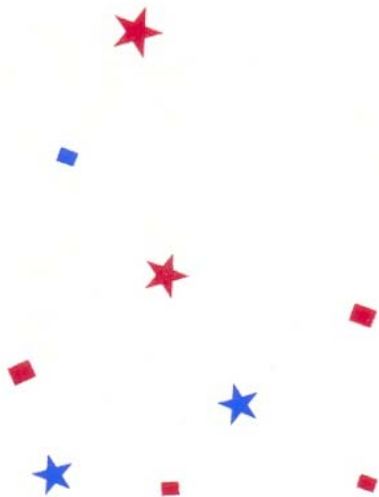

Baldev Raj

".... The relative role of indigenous science & technology and foreign collaboration can be highlighted through an analogy. Indigenous science & technology plays the part of an engine in an aircraft, while foreign collaboration can play the part of a booster. A booster in the form of foreign collaboration can give a plane an assisted take-off, but it will be incapable of independent flight unless it is powered by engines of its own. If Indian industry is to take-off and be capable of independent flight, it must be powered by science & technology based in the country..." - Homi Jehangir Bhabha

We wish realization of mega successes and bliss for you, your colleagues and family members in this New Year

with best regards

Baldev Raj
